Dear Sir / Mam,

In order to succeed in today's VUCA world, businesses need to come up with innovative solutions to cope with the rapidly changing environment and uncertainties. Technology is evolving at a fast pace and the line between competitors and collaborators is getting blurred. In addition, organizations are faced with environmental challenges and highly demanding customers.

This is particularly true in the case of the textile industry. Design Thinking offers a human-centered, immersive, and well-defined approach to solving unstructured and complex problems innovatively. Using DT, organizations are accepting the need to transform their workplaces into those showcasing very innovative work cultures.

We are pleased to inform you that a webinar is being organized jointly by TAI & SPJIMR as per the following details.:

Hello,

A little detail about the second webinar - Naturally Inspiring. We got a tremendous response in the first session last week with huge number of attendees from PAN India.

Request you to please pass on the Session 2 reminder mail to all design/textile students as well as faculties. Hoping for good number of registrations from your institute. Registration link is attached :)

23rd February 2021

Session Two: Panel Discussion on Sustainable fashion and the positive effects wool has on the environment

Time: 6.00pm - 6:45pm (IST)

Panel: Taran Chhabra, Chief Executive Officer, Neeman's; Basco Henriques, Founder, Bio Dye Pvt India Ltd and Shivani Thakur, Production and Export Advisor, Bhuttico Weavers Cooperative Society Ltd

Moderator: Padmaja Mohanty, Trade and Education Co-ordinator India, The Woolmark Company

Information: In this session, next generation designers will discuss their journey practising sustainable textile and design methods and the benefit wool has for their brand and their consumers' buying behaviours.

Introducing the Panelists –

Dr. Bosco Henriques

Director,
OF TEXTILE & SCIENCES, BHIWANI

He is the co-founder/director of BioDye India Pvt. Ltd., since 2008, which is an Indian natural dyeing unit that uses the in-house developed technology to break the accepted paradigm which prescribed that natural dyes are dull, bleed, fade and yield only a few colours. This forced designer's to adapt their creations to accommodate that limitation. The technology developed by Dr. Bosco uses only alum and iron as mordants to yield bright yellows, vibrant reds, intense blues, jet blacks and the associated range of hues, tints and shades, on all natural substrates from Jute, linen and cotton to silk, wool and Pashmina . This breakthrough has enabled designers to choose colours that can give a wing to their creativity.

Taran Chhabra

Taran Chhabra is the founder and CEO of Neeman's that's disrupted the Indian footwear industry in a big way. Neeman's is the first Indian brand to introduce wool shoes in the market. Long before Taran made a niche for himself in the shoe segment, he was leading the corporate grind in major pharma and life sciences companies and was instrumental in their growth thanks to his business analytical skills.

His journey from a Business Analytics corporate leader to an Entrepreneur is laden with adventure, risk and self-discovery. www.neemans.com

Shivani Thakur

Director,
OF TEXTILE & SCIENCES, BHIWANI

Shivani Thakur, Advisor for Production and Exports for Bhuttico (Bhutti Weavers Cooperative Society Ltd.) has an experience for 22 years in the Indian Handloom sector, specially representing the largest wool consuming weavers society in India. Her knowledge has been in understanding the wool handloom weaving process, weaver's wellbeing, dealing with the supply chain, marketing of the products and bringing the weavers community's work to the forefront.
